Infinera®

Now part of Nokia

Training Program

Our Training Program provides customers with a long-term training plan that ensures continuous learning for their employees and equips those employees to best utilize and manage deployed Infinera solutions. The program consists of self-paced online training available anytime, anywhere as well as customized instructor-led training sessions delivered periodically over a longer period of time.

Long-term
Multi-year training program to ensure continuous learning over the deployed solution's lifecycle

Customized
Customized content to address specific customer requirements in different phases of network operation

From Beginner to Advanced
More advanced training topics as the customer skill level increases over the years

Topics for instructor-led training sessions are customized to address specific requirements of deployed network solutions. As a customer's employees gain knowledge by operating our solutions, our program provides the necessary skills for each phase of the solution lifecycle. Topics are based on information gathered from student assessments before and after instructor-led training sessions, discussions with the customer, as well as on our broad experience with various types of networking solutions.

Student assessments before and after instructor-led trainings provide valuable information about progress made by individual students and help us design an effective and comprehensive training program that addresses the requirements of each specific customer team.

Initial instructor-led training for new deployment

Customized workshops with pre/post assessments

Customized workshops with pre/post assessments

E-learning subscription

Year 1   Year 2   Year 3

Customer Skill Level

For more details about the program or for making a plan for your team, please contact your Infinera account team or Training-MGR@infinera.com.

Infinera®

Now part of Nokia